Goodbye Snow!
 By Kristen Riley
 Snowman, Snowman,
 Tall and White
 Melting from the warm sunlight
 Bittersweet to see you go
 Hello Spring!
 Goodbye, Snow!

Did you know?

- * Each snowflake is unique – so, no two will ever look exactly alike.
- * The typical snowflake has 180 billion water molecules in it.
- * Permanent ice and snow cover 12% of Earth's surface.
- * For the first time ever, snow was reported on the ground of all 50 states on February 12, 2010.
- * On January 19, 1977, a trace of snow was recorded in Homestead, FL (south of Miami) – that's the furthest south snow has fallen in the continental United States.
- * Afraid of snow? You may have Chionophobia, which is the fear of snow.
